A Note from Ms. Nelson

Dear 4th Grade Families,

It was so wonderful to see all the students back from Mid-Winter Break and hear about all your adventures! They all were so excited to see each other and it was so wonderful being back with the whole team again.

This week in Math we entered the wonderful world of FRACTIONS! In Reading, we continued to inch closer to the end of The Tale of Despereaux, and had a delightful book club with Dr. Romero. We began our study of electrical energy in Science, and explored different conductors and insulators. In Social Studies, we continued learning about the events that lead up to Westward Expansion, and in Religion we explored different ways to engage with prayer.

There are always fun things happening in our classroom, so please take a moment to read next week's WAG for a peek ahead!

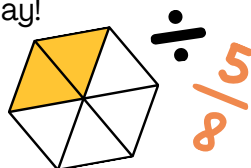

Know of my prayers for you and your family always, and enjoy your weekend!

Best,

Ms. Nelson

Fraction Bars

As mentioned above, we have started fractions in 4th grade Math! In order to help the students with their visualization of the concepts, students have been using fraction bars (that they made!) both in class and at home. They have been reminded that the bars need to come back to school with them every day, but just keep an eye out around the house for any stray fractions - and maybe one more reminder that they need to bring them back with them every day!

Parent Education Night

Next week on Tuesday, March 5th, we will have our second Parent Education Night at 7pm on Zoom! This evening's discussion will focus on how our school is encouraging academic excellence. This is the second in a series of three Parent Education Nights that are being held this year. The meetings are mandatory, and are a great opportunity to hear from the leaders in our school about all of the incredible things that we are providing for your students. We look forward to seeing you there!
